

Partha Das , MD, MBBS, MRCP (Neph), MSc

The Chief Medical Officer at DaVita International, Honorary Consultant Nephrologist, King's College Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, London, physician executive with international clinical, operational and research experience within the public and private sector. He developed considerable expertise in the use of continuous quality improvement (QI) methodologies to improve healthcare services. Most recently, this has involved designing, implementing and scaling a bespoke patient safety and QI platform for a multinational healthcare provider across operations in ten different countries. He believes that a culture of QI must be embedded into healthcare organisations through engaging frontline staff in order to deliver high-value care to patients. He has expertise in integrating clinical standards, processes and organisational culture into acquired healthcare providers. As a practicing consultant nephrologist in the NHS he maintains a true north orientated around the needs of patients as well as credibility amongst healthcare professionals, His clinical credentials, systems transformation background and executive. He contributed to multiple peer-reviewed journal publications, international conference presentations and book chapters.