

Privacy Policy

This privacy policy describes the terms and conditions related to the processing and protection of personal data provided by users in connection with the use of the myMUB mobile application.

myMUB application is the official English-language mobile application of the Medical University of Białystok, whose seat is located at ul. Jana Kilińskiego 1, 15-089 Białystok, Poland.

The application is intended mainly for foreign students and doctoral students of the Medical University of Białystok, as well as foreign academic teachers and visitors. Other people can also use the application. All people who use the application are called users.

The use of the mobile application is free of charge. It is possible to download the application from online stores with mobile apps. The user of the mobile application can remove the application at any time.

By using the myMUB mobile application, the user accepts this Privacy Policy. The acceptance of the privacy policy takes place the first time the application is turned on.

Personal data in the mobile application may be collected through:

- information provided voluntarily by users in contact forms included in the myMUB mobile application. Such data includes: name and surname, telephone, e-mail, year of study, field of study.

We kindly inform you that:

- the application requires internet access,
- the myMUB mobile application does not require logging in,
- the myMUB mobile application does not use Cookies. The application contains links to the official website of the Medical University of Białystok. Cookies policy of this website is available at: https://www.umb.edu.pl/en/s,6604/Cookies_Policy
- personal data provided to the myMUB mobile application will not be sold or made available to third parties, in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (hereinafter referred to as GDPR).
- personal data and the content of messages sent via contact forms are conveyed directly to the employees of the Medical University of Białystok, responsible for particular issues, via e-mail operating within the university network.
- the mobile application does not collect data automatically. User data is stored locally on the phone. The University or an external entity which the University has signed a data entrustment agreement with does not collect any additional data.
- the application may ask for access to the calendar in order to save appointments in it and for access to files, multimedia and photos. Consent for access is voluntary, but failure to do so may restrict the operation of some functions. The University does not gain access to the User's data on the device, nor does it allow third parties to do so. This data is available locally on the user's device (e.g. phone).
- the mobile application requires permission to access the device's location in order to use certain functionalities. Granting consent is voluntary, but failure to do so may restrict access to certain functions.

- The Medical University of Białystok (MUB) is not responsible for the privacy policy of external entities, including entities running websites or applications to which links are included in the application as well as the online stores. The user should read the privacy policy applicable to these entities.

This privacy policy may change in time. Changes may be dictated by the development of information technologies, changes in the law on the protection of personal data or further development of the mobile application and the introduction of new functionalities. Its current version is always available on the information website of the mobile application and in the mobile application module: About the App. The University will inform Users about changes significantly affecting the privacy assumptions by publishing relevant information in the module: News.
